The Yongin Dae Jang Geum Park is the heartland of the Korean Wave and main stage for MBC historical drama series.

In the park, traditional Korean architecture styles and living spaces are perfectly reconstructed and implemented based on thorough historical research on the period of the Three States and the Goryeo and Joseon dynasty. So far, numerous MBC historical dramas have been filmed here. Going beyond the current role as the main stage for historical dramas, the future goal of the park is to become the biggest Korean wave theme park and a culture experience center where visitors can fully enjoy a trip to the past.

Dae Jang Geum ("Jewel in the Palace") Set

- The set commemorating Dae Jang Geum was newly created with materials brought from the set that had been established in the MBC Yangjie. Culture Valley in Yangpyeong do. The TV drama <Dae Jang Geum> was set and acted in this place, which was specially produced to celebrate the 40th anniversary of MBC and aired on MBC from September 2003 to March 2004, was recorded as the most hit Korean drama in the world.

- In many dramas, the pond was used as a place for banquet ceremonies and romantic dates. The king’s banquet and Ding of the palace, Ding of the queen, in the Crown also enjoyed their scenic rendezvous here.

House of Choe Woo

- This house was the main set on which the epic dramas of God of War took place. The drama was about how from the warrior Kim, Jun, a former slave, could become the most powerful man in the time of Goryeo military regime, when a strong military establishment ruled the country for 100 years instead of a king. It is also notable that the separable building line has been used by many drama directors.

Muryangjeon Hall

- This hall served as a place of peace and discussion, which is frequently used by the gentry during the Joseon dynasty.

Injeongjeon Hall

- The hall where kings of many generations to rule the area of state affairs, have been one of the most frequently appeared places in the historical dramas. The set was first used as the main background of the coronation ceremony scene in <The King’s Face>. In the beginning, it was used as a set for the movie <The Great Queen Seondeok>. The “Muryangjeon Hall” and the “Injeongjeon Hall” were frequently used by actors of <Moon Embracing the Sun> as a secret place of romance.

Bopyeongjeon Hall

- This set depicts a judicial authority of the Joseon dynasty. The set was filmed on the background of which Ding of Ding of the Crown, served as a court hall. It was also used as a medical and dramatic area in the drama.Police Bureau

- The set is the most famous for the last filming site of <Moon Embracing the Sun>, where Yang Sang-goon, a military officer turned politician, was filmed on the set. The building was built based on Muryangjeon Hall in the Yeongju Buseoksa temple, a wooden building made in the Silla period.

House of an Official

- It is a traditional residential space of Yangban (gentry during the Joseon dynasty) and is the heartland of the arts competition of imperial princess of <Shine or be Mad> was held.

Prison

- In the dramatic drama of <Moon Embracing the Sun>, where Yang Sang-goon, a military officer turned politician, was filmed on the set. The building was built based on Muryangjeon Hall in the Yeongju Buseoksa temple, a wooden building made in the Silla period.

House of a Medical School

- This set was created as a result of the <The King’s Face>, which aired in 2012. This house was a medical center that governed medicine and treatment of the working class in the Joseon dynasty. In the drama, the scene of which a veterinarian (Yoon Hyun-min) went through the test process to become a medical doctor and treated people were filmed here.

Yeo-wul’s Residence

- In the drama, the scene of which a veterinarian (Yoon Hyun-min) went through the test process to become a medical doctor and treated people were filmed here.

Gun-powder Weapon Center

- Hyeminseo was a medical center that partly treated and housed patients that were deemed infected with the Bubonic Plague.

Yeolseongak Pavilion

- This set depicts a judicial authority of the Joseon dynasty. The set was filmed on the background of which Ding of Ding of the Crown, served as a court hall. It was also used as a medical and dramatic area in the drama.Military Drill Hall

- This set depicts a judicial authority of the Joseon dynasty. The set was filmed on the background of which Ding of Ding of the Crown, served as a court hall. It was also used as a medical and dramatic area in the drama.Dae Jang Geum (“Jewel in the Palace”) Set

- This set was specially produced to celebrate the 40th anniversary of MBC and aired on MBC from September 2003 to March 2004, was recorded as the most hit Korean drama in the world.

Police Bureau

- This set is the most famous for the last filming site of <Moon Embracing the Sun>, where Yang Sang-goon, a military officer turned politician, was filmed on the set. The building was built based on Muryangjeon Hall in the Yeongju Buseoksa temple, a wooden building made in the Silla period.

House of an Official

- It is a traditional residential space of Yangban (gentry during the Joseon dynasty).